One of the most important resources at the Carteret Community College library is the access to thousands of scholarly articles, newspapers, and eBooks through NCLIVE. These quality resources are excellent sources to use in your research papers.
Accessing NCLIVE

To access NCLIVE click on the link on the library’s homepage or go to NCLIVE.org.
NCLIVE organizes their resources into six browsable formats. Need an article? Try using the “articles” tab on NCLIVE.
ProQuest Central is a general reference database covering over 175 subjects. This is a great place to start your research. From here you can search for your topic.
Let’s search for information on Agent Orange and the Vietnam War.

Be sure to select the full text option as not all articles in NCLIVE are full text. Depending on the requirements of your paper, you may also want to choose to limit your results to peer reviewed.

"agent orange" AND "vietnam war"
Searching in ProQuest Central

To learn more about how to search in the ProQuest databases, be sure to review the search tips.
On the results page you can narrow your results by source type, publication date, and other options.

Also, conveniently you may email, print, cite, and save articles.
If you ever have questions or need assistance, ask a librarian!